INTRODUCTION

Concord Crossroads, LLC has restated the Concord Crossroads, LLC 401(k) Profit Sharing Plan and Trust to help you and other employees save for retirement.

Your Employer has restated the Plan by signing a complex legal agreement - the Plan document - which contains all of the provisions that the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) requires. The Plan document must follow certain federal laws and regulations that apply to retirement plans. The Plan document may change when new or revised laws or regulations take effect. Your Employer also has the right to modify certain features of the Plan from time to time. You will be notified of changes affecting your rights under the Plan.

This summary plan description (SPD) summarizes the important features of the Plan document, including your benefits and obligations under the Plan. If you want more detailed information regarding certain plan features or have questions about the information contained in this SPD, you should contact your Plan Administrator. You may also examine a copy of the plan document by making arrangements with your Plan Administrator. Certain terms in the SPD have a special meaning when used in the Plan. These terms are capitalized throughout the SPD and are defined in more detail in the DEFINITIONS section of the SPD. If there are any inconsistencies between this SPD and the Plan document, the Plan document will be followed.

Your Employer has amended and restated the Concord Crossroads, LLC 401(k) Profit Sharing Plan and Trust, which was originally adopted 01/01/2006. The effective date of this amended Plan is 3/5/2020.

Although the Plan is generally effective 3/5/2020, you can never defer on Compensation that you receive before your Deferral election.

CONTRIBUTIONS (& VESTING)

What amount can I contribute to the Plan?

Deferrals

You will be able to contribute a portion of your Compensation as a pre-tax Deferral or as a Roth Deferral once you have met the eligibility requirements and enter the Plan. The maximum dollar amount that you can contribute to the Plan each year is $19,500 (for 2020) and includes contributions you make to other deferral plans (for example, other 401(k) plans, salary deferral SEP plans and 403(b) tax-sheltered annuity plans). This amount will increase as the cost of living increases. Your Plan Administrator may further limit the amount that you can contribute to the Plan to help the Plan satisfy certain nondiscrimination requirements. Your Plan Administrator will notify you if you are a Highly Compensated Employee and are subject to any additional limits. Deferrals (and the related earnings) are always fully vested and cannot be forfeited. So if you were to leave your Employer, you would be entitled to the full Deferral balance (plus earnings).

The amount of your Compensation that you decide to defer into the Plan as a pre-tax Deferral will be contributed on a pre-tax basis. That means that, unlike the compensation that you actually receive, the pre-tax contribution (and all of the earnings accumulated while it is invested in the Plan) will not be taxed at the time it is paid by your Employer. Instead, it will be taxable to you when you withdraw it from the Plan. These contributions will reduce your taxable income each year you make a contribution but will be treated as compensation for Social Security taxes.

EXAMPLE: Assume your Compensation is $25,000 per year. You decide to contribute five percent (5%) of your Compensation into the Plan. Your Employer will pay you $23,750 as gross taxable income and will deposit $1,250 (5%) into the Plan. You will not pay taxes on the $1,250 (plus earnings on the $1,250) until you withdraw it from the Plan.

You also have the choice of treating your Deferrals as Roth Deferrals rather than pre-tax Deferrals. Roth Deferrals are contributed to the Plan from amounts that have already been treated as taxable income. Roth Deferrals will not reduce your taxable income in the year in which you contribute a portion of your Compensation into the Plan. The benefit of making Roth contributions comes when you take a distribution from the Plan - when both the original contributions and your earnings on those contributions are paid out tax-free if you meet certain requirements for a qualified distribution.

EXAMPLE: Your Compensation is $25,000 per year. You decide to contribute five percent (5%) of your Compensation into the Plan. Your Employer will pay you $23,750 as income and will deposit $1,250 (5%) into the Plan. You will include the entire $25,000 in your income for the year it was earned even though you only received $23,750. When you withdraw the $1,250 contribution from the Plan, it will be tax free (along with all of the earnings that have accumulated on that contribution) if you take a qualified distribution. (For more information regarding qualified distributions from Roth Deferrals, please refer to the section of the summary plan description (SPD) describing Plan distributions.) The earnings will never be taxed if you take a qualified distribution.

Catch-up Contributions

If you are eligible to make Deferrals and you turn age 50 before the end of any calendar year, you may defer up to an extra $6,500 each year (for 2020) into the Plan as a pre-tax and/or Roth contribution once you meet certain Plan limits. The maximum catch-up amount may increase as the cost of living increases.

These catch-up contributions will not be eligible for Matching Contributions from your employer. Catch-up Contributions (and the related earnings) are considered Deferrals and are always fully vested. So if you were to leave your Employer, you would be entitled to the full catch-up balance (plus earnings).

How do I start making contributions?

To begin contributing a portion of your Compensation into the Plan, you must follow the procedures established by your Plan Administrator.

What if I don't make a specific election to contribute some of my Compensation into the Plan?

If you are a new employee who has satisfied the eligibility requirements and you were hired on or after the date your Employer adopted this provision and you do not make a Deferral election, your Plan Administrator will automatically contribute 3% of your Compensation from each payroll into the Plan. These contributions will be treated as pre-tax Deferrals. You are not required to defer a portion of your Compensation into the Plan, and you may instruct your Plan Administrator to stop Deferrals or to defer a different percentage by following the procedures established by your Plan Administrator.

Example: You satisfy the Plan's eligibility requirements and are eligible to contribute to the Plan. You do not complete your enrollment during the designated time period. You will automatically be enrolled in the Plan and 3% of your Compensation will be contributed to the Plan from each payroll rather than being paid to you as Compensation.

Example: You satisfy the Plan's eligibility requirements and enroll in the Plan by electing 0%. Because you made a specific election regarding your Deferrals, you will not be automatically enrolled in the Plan and none of your Compensation will be contributed to the Plan.

Can I change my contribution rate or stop making Deferrals after I start participating in the Plan?

You may change the amount you are deferring into the Plan or stop making Deferrals altogether at the times determined by your Plan Administrator.

If you decide to stop making Deferrals to the Plan, you may choose to begin deferring again at the times determined by your Plan Administrator.

You may also change the amount of your Deferrals that are characterized as pre-tax Deferrals versus Roth Deferrals at the times determined by your Plan Administrator. This change will apply only to new Deferrals and will not apply to Deferrals already contributed to the Plan.

What if I contribute too much to the Plan?

If you contribute too much to the Plan as a Deferral, you must take the excess amount (plus any earnings on the excess) out of the Plan by 4/15 of the year following the year the money was contributed to the Plan. You must notify your Plan Administrator, in writing, of the excess amount by 04/15 and request that it be removed. The excess amount is taxable to you in the year you contributed it to the Plan. If you do not remove it by the deadline, additional taxes will apply.

If you are a Highly Compensated Employee, the Deferrals that you and all other Highly Compensated Employees contribute to the Plan will be compared with the Deferrals of employees who are not highly compensated. If Deferrals of the Highly Compensated Employees exceed certain limits, a portion of your Deferrals may have to be returned to you. Your Plan Administrator will notify you if you are affected by these rules.

If I make Plan contributions, will my Employer match any of those contributions?Matching Contributions

Each year that you contribute a portion of your Compensation into the Plan as a pre-tax Deferral and/or Roth Deferral and you satisfy the additional requirements outlined below, your Employer may make a contribution to the Plan as a Matching Contribution on your behalf. The amount of the Matching Contribution, if any, will be determined each year by your Employer.

In addition to making a pre-tax Deferral and/or Roth Deferral, you must also be employed on the last day of the Plan Year to qualify for a Matching Contribution.

Qualified Matching Contributions

Your Employer may decide to make Qualified Matching Contributions to the Plan to satisfy special nondiscrimination rules that apply to the Plan. The amount of the Qualified Matching Contribution, if any, will be determined each year by your Employer's governing body. This contribution will be fully vested at all times and cannot be forfeited, even if you terminate employment.

Will the Employer make Nonelective Contributions to the Plan?

Qualified Nonelective Contribution

Your Employer may decide to make a Qualified Nonelective Contribution (QNEC) to the Plan to satisfy special nondiscrimination rules that apply to the Plan. The amount of the QNEC, if any, will be determined each year by your Employer's governing body. This contribution will be fully vested at all times and cannot be forfeited, even if you terminate employment.

Will my Employer make Profit Sharing Contributions to the Plan?

The Employer may make Profit Sharing Contributions to the Plan in the years and in the amounts determined each year by the managing body of your Employer.

To qualify to receive a Profit Sharing Contribution, you must satisfy the eligibility requirements for Profit Sharing Contributions and must also work at least 500 Hours of Service during the Plan Year.

The Hours of Service requirement will not apply, however, if any of the following occur.

- You die.
- You terminate employment after becoming Disabled.
- You terminate employment after reaching Normal Retirement Age.

The Profit Sharing Contribution made by your Employer will be allocated using a pro rata formula. Under this formula, your Employer's contribution is divided among all eligible Plan Participants based on their Compensation as compared to all eligible Participants' Compensation.

Will my Employer make a top-heavy contribution to the Plan on my behalf?

If more than 60 percent of the assets in the Plan are held by Key Employees, your Employer may need to make an additional contribution for Participants who are not Key Employees.

If I have money in other retirement plans, can I combine them with my dollars under this Plan?

Rollovers

Your Employer may allow you to roll over dollars you have saved in other retirement arrangements into this Plan even though you have not met the eligibility requirements to participate in the Plan. Your Plan Administrator will provide you with the information to determine whether your prior plan balance is qualified to be rolled into this Plan.

The Plan will accept amounts directly rolled over from the prior plan to this Plan including Roth Deferrals and Nondeductible Employee Contributions if the prior plan was a:

- qualified retirement plan (e.g., 401(k) plan, profit sharing plan, money purchase pension plan, target benefit plan)
- 403(b) annuity plan
- government 457 plan

The Plan will accept amounts directly rolled over from a Traditional IRA (pre-tax dollars only).

The Plan will accept amounts indirectly rolled over from the prior plan to this Plan including Roth Deferrals if the prior plan was a:

- qualified retirement plan (e.g., 401(k) plan, profit sharing plan, money purchase pension plan, target benefit plan)
- 403(b) annuity plan
- government 457 plan
- Traditional IRA

Transfers

Your Employer may allow you to transfer dollars you have saved in other retirement arrangements into this Plan (elective transfers). Your Plan Administrator will provide you with the information to determine whether your prior plan balance is eligible to be transferred.

Rollover and Transfer contributions are always 100 percent vested and nonforfeitable.

Are there any limits on how much can be contributed for me?

In addition to the Deferral limit described previously, you may not have total contributions of more than $57,000 (for 2020) or an amount more than 100% of your Compensation, whichever is less, allocated to the Plan for your benefit each year. The $57,000 limit will be increased as the cost of living increases.

Will contributions be made for me if I am called to military service?

If you are reemployed by your Employer after completing military service, you may be entitled to receive certain make-up contributions from your Employer.

Since the Plan permits Deferrals, you may also have the option of making up missed employee contributions and receiving a Matching Contribution on these contributions.

If you are reemployed after military service, contact your Plan Administrator for more information about your options under the Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act (USERRA) of 1994.

Will I be able to keep my employer contributions if I terminate employment?

Profit Sharing Contributions and Matching Contributions are subject to a vesting schedule and could be forfeited if you terminate your employment. You will earn the right to a greater portion of your Profit Sharing and Matching Contributions the longer you work for your Employer. Generally, all of your years of service with the Employer count toward determining your vested percentage.

You must work at least 1000 hours during each Plan Year to earn a year of vesting service.

If you are on active duty with the uniformed services for a period of more than 30 days, and are unable to return to employment due to death or disability incurred while on active duty, the time you spent on active duty will be taken into account in determining the vested portion of your account.

The following vesting schedule applies to Profit Sharing and Matching Contributions.

YEARS OF VESTING SERVICE	VESTED PERCENTAGE
Less than One	0%
1	0%
2	20%
3	40%
4	60%
6	100%

Example: You have worked for your Employer four (4) years and have received Employer Contributions of $1,000. You terminate employment and request a distribution of your Employer's Contributions. Because you have four (4) years of vesting service, you will receive 60% or $600.

Although your Employer has adopted a vesting schedule, your balance will become 100 percent vested when:

- you reach Normal Retirement Age
- the Plan is terminated or contributions to the Plan are discontinued
- you die
- you incur a disability

Like the amounts that you contribute to the Plan as Deferrals, certain contributions that you receive from your Employer will always be fully vested and cannot be forfeited, even if you terminate employment, including:

- QNECs
- QMACs

What happens to my nonvested percentage if I terminate employment?

If you terminate employment, you will always retain the right to the vested portion of your Plan balance. If you do not take a distribution, the nonvested portion of your Plan balance will be placed in a suspense account, and will be restored to you if you are rehired before five one-year breaks in vesting service have occurred. To avoid a break in vesting service you must have worked more than 500 hours during any Plan Year.

If you decide to take a distribution of the entire vested portion of your balance, your nonvested portion will be forfeited and may be used to pay the Plan's administrative expenses. Forfeitures may also be used to reduce future employer contributions to the Plan. If you are rehired before five one-year breaks in vesting service occur, your forfeited amount will be restored if you repay to the Plan the full amount of your distribution.

INVESTING YOUR PLAN ACCOUNT

What investments are permitted?

Your Plan Administrator (or someone appointed by your Employer) will select a list of investments that will be available under the Plan. The list of Plan investments may change from time to time as your Plan Administrator considers appropriate investment alternatives.

You may invest in any investments that are administratively feasible for the Plan to hold. Contact your Plan Administrator if you are not certain whether a particular investment is permitted under the Plan. You should carefully review the prospectus or other available information before making your investment selections.

Life insurance investments will not be available under the Plan.

Who is responsible for selecting the investments for my account under the Plan?

Your Plan Administrator will permit you to select the investments for your entire account under the Plan. Your Plan Administrator will establish administrative procedures that you must follow to select your investments. Contact your Plan Administrator if you are not certain whether a particular investment is permitted under the Plan. If you do not select investments for your Plan account, the Plan Administrator will determine how your account will be invested.

Your Employer intends to operate this Plan in compliance with the requirements for Participant investment direction in Section 404(c) of the Employee Retirement Income Security Act (ERISA), and Title 29 of the Code of Federal Regulations Section 2550.404c-1. This means that your Plan Administrator and others in charge of the Plan will not be responsible for any losses that result from investment instructions given by you or your beneficiary.

How frequently can I change my investment elections?

You may change your investment selections daily.

What if my account contains publicly traded employer stock?

If your account contains publicly traded employer stock, you are able to change your investments in employer stock held within your account. This rule allows you to invest your account in a broader range of investments that are offered by your Employer, which may help you to increase your earnings and/or lessen your risk. If the Plan previously placed restrictions on selling the employer stock held in your account, please review the Notice of Right to Diversify Employer Securities you previously received or ask your Plan Administrator for a copy if you did not receive one. If you have additional questions, please ask your Plan Administrator for more information.

WITHDRAWING MONEY FROM THE PLAN (& LOANS)

The Plan may contain assets that are subject to additional restrictions or requirements (e.g., if you have Plan assets that are transferred from a money purchase pension plan) or are not specifically addressed in this section. Please contact your Plan Administrator for information regarding these assets.

The distribution options below that apply to Deferrals will also apply to contributions made as a

- Qualified Nonelective Contribution (QNEC)
- Qualified Matching Contribution (QMAC)

Can I withdraw from the Plan while I am still employed?In-Service Distributions

You may take a distribution at any time from the following accounts within your Plan.

- Rollover contributions

You may take a distribution from your transfer contributions at the same time your Profit Sharing Contributions are available for withdrawal.

You may take a distribution of your pre-tax and Roth Deferrals while you are still employed but only after you reach age 59.5.

You may take a distribution of your pre-tax and Roth Deferrals while you are still employed but only after you reach Normal Retirement Age. (Note: you will not be able to take a distribution of your pre-tax and Roth Deferrals until age 59.5 if Normal Retirement Age is younger than 59.5.)

You may take a distribution from the Deferrals, Matching Contributions, and Profit Sharing Contributions in your Plan account if you become Disabled.

You may take a distribution of Matching Contributions at the times listed below, even if you are still employed by the Employer.

- When you reach age 59.5
- When you reach Normal Retirement Age

You may take a distribution of Profit Sharing Contributions at the times listed below, even if you are still employed by the Employer.

- When you reach age 59.5
- When you reach Normal Retirement Age

If you are eligible to receive an in-service withdrawal of Matching Contributions and Profit Sharing Contributions, you may take unlimited in-service withdrawals while you are still employed by your Employer.

If you are on active duty in the uniformed services for a period of more than 30 days, you may take a distribution of your Deferrals from the Plan without severing from employment with your Employer. But, if you choose to take distributions under this provision, you will not be permitted to make Deferrals to the Plan during the six-month period beginning on the date of the distribution.

You may be able to take a penalty-free distribution from your Deferrals if you were called to active military duty after September 11, 2001. In order to qualify for these penalty-free distributions, you must have been ordered or called to active duty for a period of at least 180 days (or for an indefinite period), and your distribution must have been taken after you were called to duty and before your active duty ended.

What money is available once I terminate my employment?

Once you are no longer working for your Employer, you may take a distribution of the vested portion of all of the following types of contributions to the Plan.

- Deferrals
- Matching Contributions
- Profit Sharing Contributions
- Rollover contributions
- Transfer contributions

How do I request a distribution?

You must follow the procedures established by your Plan Administrator.

If you die, become Disabled, or reach Normal Retirement Age and you qualify for and request a distribution, your distribution will be made as soon as administratively feasible after the date you (or your beneficiary in the case of your death) request it.

If you terminate employment and you qualify for and request a distribution, your distribution will be made as soon as administratively feasible after the date you (or your beneficiary in the case of your death) request it.

If I am married, does my spouse have to approve my distributions from the Plan?

Generally, you are not required to get consent from your spouse in order to take a distribution or loan from the Plan.

How will my money be distributed to me if I request a distribution from the Plan?

You may choose from the following options for your distribution.

- Lump sum
- Partial payments (payments of a portion of your account that are not regularly scheduled)

Do any penalties or restrictions apply to my distribution?

Generally, if you take a distribution from the Plan before you are age 59.5, a 10 percent early distribution penalty will apply to the taxable portion of your distribution. There are some exceptions to the 10 percent penalty. Your tax adviser can assist you in determining whether you qualify for a penalty exception.

If your distribution is eligible to be rolled over and you choose to take the distribution rather than roll over the amount, 20 percent of the distribution must be withheld and remitted to the IRS as a credit toward the taxes you will owe on the distribution amount.

EXAMPLE: You request a $10,000 distribution from your account balance. If the amount is eligible to be rolled over to another plan, but you choose not to roll it over, you will receive $8,000 and $2,000 will be remitted to the IRS.

If you have made Roth Deferrals into the Plan, each distribution will consist of a portion of your Roth Deferrals and a portion of the earnings attributable to the Roth Deferrals (which have not been taxed). The earnings will be included in income and generally subject to the 10% early distribution penalty unless you are eligible to take a qualified Roth distribution. You may take a qualified Roth distribution only if at least five years have passed since you first began making Roth Deferrals and you take the distribution because you reach age 59½, you become Disabled, or you die and the payment is being made to your beneficiary.

Can I take a loan from the Plan?

Although the Plan is designed primarily to help you save for retirement, you may take a loan from the Plan as outlined below.

You will be permitted to have only one loan outstanding at any time and the maximum loan amount available to you will be $50,000 (reduced by the highest outstanding loan balance in the previous 12 months) or one-half of your vested account balance in the Plan (reduced by the current outstanding loan balance, if any), whichever is less.

No loans will be issued for less than $1000.

You will not be permitted to take loans from your

- Roth Deferrals

You will be able to take a loan from only those accounts invested in any Plan assets, except those with restrictions in trading, fees, etc..

The effective date of the loan program is 3/5/2020.

How do I apply for a loan?

To apply for a loan you must complete and submit the loan application provided (or approved) by your loan administrator and pay any applicable loan fees. Your loan administrator is the Plan Administrator. You can contact your loan administrator at 2525 Pointe Center Court, Suite 350, Dumfries, VA 22026.

Your loan administrator will administer the loan program and will consider the vested portion of your account when reviewing your loan request. The interest rate for your loan will be computed using the prime rate (as specified in the Wall Street Journal) plus 1%.

What if I don't repay my loan?

You will be required to repay the loan amount (plus interest) to the Plan. If you default on the loan, you will be taxed on the amount of the outstanding loan balance and will generally be subject to a 10 percent penalty if you are under age 59.5. In addition, your Plan Administrator has the right to foreclose its security interest in the portion of your vested account under the Plan that you pledged as security for the loan, when an event allowing a Plan distribution occurs. The following events will cause a loan default:

- Not repaying your loan as required in your loan agreement
- Breaching any of your obligations under your loan agreement
- Terminating employment

If you fail to make your scheduled loan payments you will have until the end of the calendar quarter following the calendar quarter in which the default occurred to make up the missed payments and avoid a loan default.

If you terminate employment while you have a loan, you must repay the loan by the earlier of a) the date designated by the plan sponsor, or b) 60 days after separation from service to avoid a loan default.

Will I ever be required to take my money out of the Plan?

How long you can leave your money in the Plan depends on the amount you have in the Plan and whether you are still employed.

Balance of $1,000 or less

If your vested balance at the time you terminate from employment is $1,000 or less, you must take it out of the Plan when you terminate employment. If you do not tell your Plan Administrator what to do with your account in the Plan (e.g., roll it over to an individual retirement arrangement (IRA)), your Plan Administrator will distribute your Plan account as a lump sum.

Balance between $1,000 and $5,000

If your vested account balance is between $1,000 and $5,000, you must take it out of the Plan when you terminate employment or your Plan Administrator will roll it over to an IRA that is established for you.

The amount distributed and rolled over into an IRA by the Plan Administrator (and not authorized by you) will be invested in a product designed to preserve principal and to provide a reasonable rate of return and liquidity. The IRA provider that receives the rollover may charge fees and expenses for maintaining the IRA, and these fees and expenses may be assessed directly against the assets of the IRA or billed directly to you. You will be provided more information regarding the IRA provider if you become subject to this provision. For more information concerning the rollover procedures, the IRA provider, and the fees and expenses relating to the IRA, please contact your Plan Administrator, whose address and telephone number are found in the ADMINISTRATIVE INFORMATION AND RIGHTS UNDER ERISA section of this document.

Balance greater than $5,000

If your vested account balance is greater than $5,000, even if you terminate service, you are not required to take a distribution from the Plan until the required minimum distribution rules apply to you. However, if your Employer chooses, your balance may be immediately distributed to you if you have separated from service and reached the later of age 62 or Normal Retirement

Age.

Rollover contributions will be included in determining your balance for these purposes.

Required Minimum Distributions

When you reach age 70.5 and separate from service, you will need to begin taking a portion of your balance out of the Plan each year. If you are a five percent owner of the Employer, you will need to begin taking payments at age 70.5 even if you are still employed.

What if I die before receiving all of my money from the Plan?

If you die before taking all of your assets from the Plan, the remaining balance will be paid to your designated beneficiary. If you do not name a beneficiary and you are married, your spouse will be your beneficiary. If you do not name a beneficiary and you are not married, your remaining balance in the Plan will be paid to your estate.

To designate your beneficiary, you must follow the procedures established by your Plan Administrator. If you are married and decide to name someone other than your spouse as your beneficiary, your spouse must consent in writing to your designation. It is important to review your designation from time to time and update it if your circumstances change (e.g., if you divorce, or a named beneficiary dies).

What happens to my benefits if I die?

Your beneficiary will generally have the same options regarding the form of the distribution that are available to you as a Participant. Your spouse beneficiary may also have the option of rolling over a distribution into an IRA in their own name.

If you die after you start taking your required distributions, your beneficiary must continue taking distributions from the Plan at least annually. If you die before you start taking your required distributions, your beneficiaries may have the option of (1) taking annual payments beginning the year following your death (or the year you would have reached age 70.5, if your spouse is your beneficiary), or (2) depleting the entire balance of the account by the end of the year in which the fifth anniversary of your death occurs. Beneficiaries that choose this option do not have to take annual payments, provided they take the entire amount by the end of that fifth year.

The Plan will permit your beneficiaries to take a payment of their portion of the individual account or directly roll over their portion of the individual account to an inherited individual retirement arrangement (IRA). If rolled over, such a distribution must otherwise qualify as a distribution that is eligible for rollover.

Effective beginning 2009, if you are a beneficiary using the five-year rule for distributions of your benefits, 2009 does not count toward determining the end of the five-year period. For example, if the Participant died in 2008, you will have until December 31, 2014, instead of December 31, 2013, to deplete your account under the Plan.

What if the Plan is terminated?

If the Plan is terminated, you will be required to take your entire account balance from the Plan.

The Employer makes the contribution to a trust fund where all assets are held for the benefit of the Participants. The Plan is a 401(k) profit sharing defined contribution plan, which means that contributions to the Plan made on your behalf (and earnings) will be separately accounted for within the plan.

Who is responsible for the day-to-day operations of the Plan?

Your Plan Administrator (the Employer) is responsible for the day-to-day administration of the Plan. To assist in operating the Plan efficiently and accurately, your Plan Administrator may appoint others to act on its behalf or to perform certain functions.

Who pays the expenses associated with operating the Plan?

All reasonable Plan administration expenses, including those involved in retaining necessary professional assistance, may be paid from the assets of the Plan. These expenses may be allocated among you and all other Plan participants or, for expenses directly related to you, paid from your account balance. For example, you may be charged for fees that may be directly related to you including general recordkeeping fees and expenses related to processing your distributions or loans (if applicable), qualified domestic relations orders, and fees related to your ability to direct the investment of your Plan balance, if applicable. Finally, the Employer may, in its discretion, pay any or all of these expenses. For example, the Employer may pay expenses for current employees but may deduct the expenses of former employees directly from their accounts. Your Plan Administrator will provide you with a summary of all Plan expenses and the method of payment of the expenses periodically, as required, and upon request.

Does my Employer have the right to change the Plan?

The Plan will be amended from time to time to incorporate changes required by the law and regulations governing retirement plans. Your Employer also has the right to amend the Plan to add new features, to change or eliminate various provisions, or to terminate the plan. An Employer cannot amend the Plan to take away or reduce protected benefits under the Plan. For example, the Employer cannot reduce the vesting percentage that applies to your current balance in the Plan.

Does participation in the Plan provide any legal rights regarding my employment?

The Plan does not intend to provide, and does not provide, any additional rights to employment or constitute a contract for employment. The purpose of this SPD is to help you understand how the Plan operates and what benefits are available to you under the Plan. The Plan document is the legal document that controls how the Plan operates and determines any rights granted under the Plan. If there are any inconsistencies between this SPD and the Plan document, the Plan document will be followed.

Can creditors or other individuals request a distribution from my Plan balance?

Creditors (other than the IRS) and others generally may not request a distribution from your Plan balance. One exception to this rule is that your Plan Administrator may distribute or reallocate your benefits in response to a qualified domestic relations order. A domestic relations order is an order or decree issued by a court that requires you to pay child support or alimony or to give a portion of your Plan account to an ex-spouse or legally separated spouse. Your Plan Administrator will review the order to ensure that it meets certain criteria (is qualified) before any money is paid from your account. You (or your beneficiary) may obtain, at no charge, a copy of the procedures your Plan Administrator will use for reviewing and qualifying a domestic relations order.

How do I file a claim?

To claim a benefit that you are entitled to under the Plan, you must file a written request with your Plan Administrator. The claim must set forth the reasons you believe you are eligible to receive benefits and you must authorize your Plan Administrator to conduct any necessary examinations and take the steps to evaluate your claim.

The 90-day time period may be extended for up to 90 days if your Plan Administrator determines that an extension is necessary to process your claim due to special circumstances. Your Plan Administrator will notify you, in writing or in any other allowable format, before the end of the initial 90-day period, of the reason(s) for the extension and the date by which a decision is expected to be made regarding your claim.

The period of time within which approval or denial of your claim is required to be made generally begins at the time your claim is filed. If the period of time is extended because you fail to submit information necessary to decide your claim, the period for approving or denying your claim will not include the period of time between the date on which the notification of the extension is sent to you and the date on which you provide the additional information.

Your Plan Administrator will notify you, in writing or in any other allowable format, before the end of the 45-day period, of the reason(s) for the extension and the date by which a decision is expected to be made regarding your claim.

If, before the end of the 30-day extension, your Plan Administrator determines that, due to matters beyond the control of the Plan, a decision regarding your claim cannot be made within the 30-day extension, the period for making the decision may be extended for an additional 30 days, provided that your Plan Administrator notifies you, in writing or in any other allowable format, before the end of the first 30-day extension, of the circumstances requiring the additional extension and the date by which a decision is expected to be made regarding your claim. The notice will specifically explain the standards on which the approval of your claim will be based, the unresolved issues that prevent a decision on your claim, and the additional information needed to resolve those issues. You will have at least 45 days within which to provide the specified information.

The period of time within which approval or denial of your claim is required to be made generally begins at the time your claim is filed. - vi. if the Adverse Determination is based on a medical necessity, experimental treatment, or similar situation, either an explanation of the scientific or clinical basis for the Adverse Determination, applying the terms of the Plan to your medical circumstances, or a statement that an explanation will be provided free of charge upon request

May I appeal the decision of my Plan Administrator?

Non-Disability Determination

You or your beneficiary will have 60 days from the date you receive the notice of an Adverse Determination within which to appeal your Plan Administrator's decision. You may request that the review be in the nature of a hearing and an attorney may represent you.

You may submit written comments, documents, records, and other information relating to your claim. In addition, you will be provided, upon request and free of charge, reasonable access to, and copies of, all documents, records, and other information pertaining to your claim.

Your appeal will take into account all comments, documents, records, and other information submitted by you relating to the claim, even if the information was not included originally.

Your Plan Administrator will provide you with notice, in writing or in any allowable format, of the final outcome of your appeal within a reasonable amount of time, but not later than 60 days after the date your request for review was filed. The 60-day time period may be extended for up to 60 days if your Plan Administrator determines that an extension is necessary to process your appeal due to special circumstances. Your Plan Administrator will notify you, in writing or in any allowable format, before the end of the initial 60-day period, of the reason(s) for the extension and the date by which a decision is expected to be made regarding your appeal.

The period of time within which approval or denial of your claim is required to be made generally begins at the time your appeal is filed. If the period of time is extended because you fail to submit information necessary to decide your appeal, the period for approving or denying your appeal will not include the period of time between the date on which the notification of the extension is sent to you and the date on which you provide the additional information.

- i. the specific reason or reasons for the Adverse Determination;
- ii. reference to the specific section of the Plan on which the Adverse Determination is based;
- iii. a statement that you are entitled to receive, upon request and free of charge, reasonable access to, and copies of, all documents, records, and other information relevant to your claim; and

Disability Determination

You will have 180 days from the date you receive the notice of an adverse benefit determination within which to appeal your Plan Administrator's decision. You may request that the review be in the nature of a hearing and an attorney may represent you.

You may submit written comments, documents, records, and other information relating to your claim. In addition, you will be provided, upon request and free of charge, reasonable access to, and copies of, all documents, records, and other information pertaining to your claim.

Your appeal will take into account all comments, documents, records, and other information submitted by you relating to the claim, even if the information was not included originally.

Your claim will be reviewed independent of your original claim and will be conducted by a named fiduciary of the Plan other than the individual who denied your original claim or any of his or her employees.

In deciding an appeal of an Adverse Determination that is based in whole or in part on a medical judgment, the appropriate named fiduciary will consult with a health care professional who has appropriate training and experience in the field of medicine involved in the medical judgment.

Your Plan Administrator will provide you with the name(s) of the health care professional(s) who was consulted in connection with your original claim, even if the Adverse Determination was not based on his or her advice. The health care professional consulted for purposes of your appeal will not be the same person or any of his or her employees.

Your Plan Administrator will provide you with notice, in writing or in any allowable format, of the final outcome of your appeal within a reasonable amount of time, but not later than 45 days after the date your request for review was filed. The 45-day period may be extended for up to 45 days if your Plan Administrator determines that an extension is necessary to process your appeal due to special circumstances. Your Plan Administrator will notify you, in writing or in any other allowable format, before the end of the initial 45-day period, of the reason(s) for the extension and the date by which a decision is expected to be made regarding your appeal. Your Plan Administrator will provide you with notice, in writing or in any allowable format, of the final outcome of your claim within a reasonable amount of time, but not later than 60 (45 if the claim is for disability) days after the date your request for review was filed. The Plan Administrator will notify you, before the end of the 60-day period, of the reason(s) for the extension and the date the Plan expects to make a decision. Generally, the extension period will end prior to 120 days from the date your request for review was filed.

The period of time within which approval or denial of your claim is required to be made generally begins at the time your claim is filed. If the period of time is extended because you fail to submit information necessary to decide your claim, the period for approving or denying your claim will not include the period of time between the date on which the notification of the extension is sent to you and the date on which you provide the additional information.

In the case of an Adverse Determination, the notification will include:

- i. the specific reason or reasons for the Adverse Determination;

If I need to take legal action with respect to the Plan, who is the agent for service of legal process?

The person who can be served with legal papers regarding the Plan is:

Claude A. Wood
13529 Zachary Taylor Court
Manassas, VA 20112

Your Plan Administrator and the Plan trustee are also agents for service of legal process.

If the Plan terminates, does the federal government insure my benefits under the Plan?

If the Plan terminates, you will become fully vested in your entire balance under the Plan, even though you would not otherwise have a sufficient number of years of vesting service to be 100 percent vested in your balance. You will be entitled to take your entire balance from the Plan following termination.

The Plan is not insured by the Pension Benefit Guaranty Corporation, the government agency that insures certain pension plan benefits upon plan termination.

What are my legal rights and protections with respect to the Plan?

As a Participant in this Plan, you are entitled to certain rights and protections under ERISA. ERISA provides that all Plan Participants shall be entitled to do the following.

Receive Information About Your Plan and Benefits

- i. Examine, without charge, at the Plan Administrator's office and at other specified locations, such as worksites and union halls, all Plan documents governing the Plan, including insurance contracts and collective bargaining agreements, and a copy of the latest annual report (Form 5500 Series) filed by the Plan with the U.S. Department of Labor and available at the Public Disclosure Room of the Employee Benefits Security Administration.
- ii. Obtain, upon request, in a manner acceptable to the Plan Administrator, to the Plan Administrator, copies of documents governing the operations of the Plan, including insurance contracts and collective bargaining agreements, and copies of the latest annual report (Form 5500 Series) and updated SPD. The Plan Administrator may charge a reasonable fee for the copies.
- iii. Receive a summary of the Plan's annual financial report. The Plan Administrator is required by law to furnish each Participant with a copy of this summary annual report.
- iv. Obtain, once a year, a statement of the total pension benefits accrued and the vested pension benefits (if any) or the earliest date on which benefits will become vested. The Plan may require a written request for this statement, but it must provide the statement free of charge.

Prudent Actions by Plan Fiduciaries

In addition to creating rights for Plan Participants, ERISA imposes duties upon the people who are responsible for the operation of the Plan. The people who operate your Plan, called "fiduciaries" of the Plan, have a duty to do so prudently and in the interest of you and other Plan Participants and beneficiaries. No one, including your Employer, your union, or any other person, may fire you or otherwise discriminate against you in any way to prevent you from obtaining a pension benefit or exercising your rights under ERISA.

Enforce Your Rights

If your claim for a benefit is denied or ignored, in whole or in part, you have a right to know why this was done, to obtain copies of documents relating to the decision without charge, and to appeal any denial, all within certain time schedules. Under ERISA, there are steps you may take to enforce the above rights. For instance, if you request a copy of Plan documents or the latest annual report from the Plan and do not receive them within 30 days, you may file suit in a Federal court. In such a case, the court may require the Plan Administrator to provide the materials and pay you up to $110 a day until you receive the materials, unless the materials were not sent because of reasons beyond the control of the Plan Administrator. If you have a claim for benefits which is denied, or ignored, in whole or in part, you may file suit in a state or Federal court. In addition, if you disagree with the Plan's decision or lack thereof concerning the qualified status of a domestic relations order or a medical child support order, you may file suit in Federal court. If it should happen that Plan fiduciaries misuse the Plan's money, or if you are discriminated against for asserting your rights, you may seek assistance from the U.S. Department of Labor, or you may file suit in a Federal court. The court will decide who should pay court costs and legal fees. If you are successful, the court may order the person you have sued to pay the costs and fees. If you lose, the court may order you to pay these costs and fees, for example, if the court finds your claim is frivolous.

Assistance with Your Questions

If you have any questions about your Plan, you should contact the Plan Administrator. If you have any questions about this statement or about your rights under ERISA, or if you need assistance in obtaining documents from the Plan Administrator, you should contact the nearest area office of the Employee Benefits Security Administration, U.S. Department of Labor, listed in your telephone directory or the Division of Technical Assistance and Inquiries, Employee Benefits Security Administration, U.S. Department of Labor, 200 Constitution Avenue N.W., Washington D.C. 20210. You may also obtain certain publications about your rights and responsibilities under ERISA by calling the publications hotline of the Employee Benefits Security Administration.

Further, if this Plan is maintained by more than one Employer, you may obtain a complete list of all such Employers by making a written request to your Plan Administrator.

DEFINITIONS

Adverse Determination – An Adverse Determination is a denial, reduction, or termination of, or a failure to provide or make payment (in whole or in part) for, a benefit, including any such denial, reduction, termination, or failure to provide or make payment that is based on a determination of your or your beneficiary's eligibility to participate in the Plan.

Compensation – The definition of Compensation under the Plan can differ depending upon the purpose (e.g., allocations, nondiscrimination testing, deductions).

Deferrals and Qualified Nonelective Contributions (QNECs)

If your Employer chooses to provide differential pay to you while you are on active duty with the uniformed services for a period of more than 30 days, the pay will be considered additional Compensation paid to you for purposes of determining Plan contributions. See your Plan Administrator to determine if your Employer provides differential pay.

The definition of Compensation used under the Plan has been further adjusted to exclude the following amounts:

- amounts earned before the date you have entered the Plan
- amounts deemed to be compensation that relate to an automatic enrollment cafeteria plan where you fail to provide proof of insurance
- post-severance payments of unused accrued sick, vacation or other leave that you are entitled to receive

A QMAC contribution is 100 percent vested when made.

Disability Claims Procedures

Summary of Material Modifications

The purpose of this document is to update your Summary Plan Description (SPD) regarding several provisions. This document is very important and should be maintained with your SPD. Unless otherwise noted, these updates apply to claims for disability benefits under the Plan that are made on or after April 1, 2018. The following sections of your SPD are amended to read as follows:

ADMINISTRATIVE INFORMATION AND RIGHTS UNDER ERISA

Q6. How do I file a claim?

To claim a benefit that you are entitled to under the Plan, you must file a written request with the Plan Administrator. The claim must set forth the reasons you believe you are eligible to receive benefits and you must authorize the Plan Administrator to conduct any necessary examinations and take the steps to evaluate your claim.

Q7. What if my claim is denied, in whole or in part?

Non-Disability Determination

Except as described below, if your claim is denied (in whole or in part), your Plan Administrator will provide you (or your beneficiary) with notice, in writing or in any allowable format, of the Adverse Determination within a reasonable amount of time, but not later than 90 days after the date your claim was filed. The 90-day time period may be extended for up to 90 days if your Plan Administrator determines that an extension is necessary to process your claim due to special circumstances. Your Plan Administrator will notify you, in writing or in any other allowable format, before the end of the initial 90-day period, of the reason(s) for the extension and the date by which a decision is expected to be made regarding your claim.

The period of time within which approval or denial of your claim is required to be made generally begins at the time your claim is filed. If the period of time is extended because you fail to submit information necessary to decide your claim, the period for approving or denying your claim will not include the period of time between the date on which the notification of the extension is sent to you and the date on which you provide the additional information.

Your Plan Administrator will provide you with notice, in writing or in any allowable format, of an Adverse Determination, if applicable. The notification will provide the following:

- i. The specific reason or reasons for the Adverse Determination;
- ii. Reference to the specific section of the Plan on which the Adverse Determination is based;
- iii. A description of any additional material or information that you must provide before the claim may continue to be processed and an explanation of why such information is necessary; and
- iv. A description of the Plan's review procedures and the time limits applicable to such procedures, including a statement of your right to bring a civil action under Section 502(a) of the Employee Retirement Income Security Act (ERISA) following a claim denial on review.

Disability Determination

Except as described below, if your disability claim is denied, (in whole or in part), your Plan Administrator will provide notice, in writing or in any allowable format, of the Adverse Determination within a reasonable amount of time, but not later than 45 days after the date your claim was filed. The 45-day time period may be extended for up to 30 days if your Plan Administrator determines that an extension is necessary to process your claim due to special circumstances. Your Plan Administrator will notify you, in writing or in any other allowable format, before the end of the 45-day period, of the reason(s) for the extension and the date by which a decision is expected to be made regarding your claim.

If, before the end of the 30-day extension, your Plan Administrator determines that, due to matters beyond the control of the Plan, a decision regarding your claim cannot be made within the 30-day extension, the period for making the decision may be extended for an additional 30 days, provided that your Plan Administrator notifies you, in writing or in any other allowable format, before the end of the first 30-day extension, of the circumstances requiring the additional extension and the date by which a decision is expected to be made regarding your claim. The notice will specifically explain the standards on which the approval of your claim will be based, the unresolved issues that prevent a decision on your claim, and the additional information needed to resolve those issues. You will have at least 45 days within which to provide the specified information.

The period of time within which approval or denial of your claim is required to be made generally begins at the time your claim is filed. If the period of time is extended because you fail to submit information necessary to decide your claim, the period for approving or denying your claim will not include the period of time between the date on which the notification of the extension is sent to you and the date on which you provide the additional information.

Your Plan Administrator will provide you with notice, in writing or in any allowable format, of an Adverse Determination, if applicable. The notification will provide the following:

- i. The specific reason or reasons for the Adverse Determination;
- ii. Reference to the specific section of the Plan on which the Adverse Determination is based;
- iii. A description of any additional material or information that you must provide before the claim may continue to be processed and an explanation of why such information is necessary;
- iv. A description of the Plan's review procedures and the time limits applicable to such procedures, including a statement of your right to bring a civil action under Section 502(a) of the ERISA following a claim denial on review;
- v. A discussion of the decision, including an explanation of the basis for disagreeing with or not following:

- the views you presented to the Plan of the health care professionals treating you and the vocational professionals who evaluated you;
 - the views of medical or vocational experts whose advice was obtained on behalf of the Plan in connection with your Adverse Determination, without regard to whether the advice was relied upon in making the benefit determination; and
 - a disability determination you presented the Plan made by the Social Security Administration;
- vi. If the Adverse Determination is based on a medical necessity, experimental treatment, or similar situation, either an explanation of the scientific or clinical judgment for the Adverse Determination, applying the terms of the Plan to your medical circumstances, or a statement that an explanation will be provided free of charge upon request;
- vii. Either the specific internal rules, guidelines, protocols, standards or other similar criteria of the Plan that was relied upon in making the Adverse Determination or, alternatively, a statement that such rules, guidelines, protocols, standards or other similar criteria of the Plan do not exist; and
- viii. A statement that the you are entitled to receive, upon request and free of charge, reasonable access to, and copies of, all documents, records, and other information relevant to your claim for benefits.

Q8. May I appeal the decision of the Plan Administrator?

Non-Disability Determination

You or your beneficiary will have 60 days from the date you receive the notice of an Adverse Determination within which to appeal your Plan Administrator's decision. You may request that the review be in the nature of a hearing and an attorney may represent you.

You may submit written comments, documents, records, and other information relating to your claim. In addition, you will be provided, upon request and free of charge, reasonable access to, and copies of, all documents, records, and other information pertaining to your claim.

Your appeal will take into account all comments, documents, records, and other information submitted by you relating to the claim, even if the information was not included originally.

Your Plan Administrator will provide you with notice, in writing or in any allowable format, of the final outcome of your appeal within a reasonable amount of time, but not later than 60 days after the date your request for review was filed. The 60-day time period may be extended for up to 60 days if your Plan Administrator determines that an extension is necessary to process your appeal due to special circumstances. Your Plan Administrator will notify you, in writing or in any allowable format, before the end of the initial 60-day period, of the reason(s) for the extension and the date by which a decision is expected to be made regarding your appeal.

The period of time within which approval or denial of your claim is required to be made generally begins at the time your appeal is filed. If the period of time is extended because you fail to submit information necessary to decide your appeal, the period for approving or denying your appeal will not include the period of time between the date on which the notification of the extension is sent to you and the date on which you provide the additional information.

In the case of an Adverse Determination, the notification will provide the following:

- i. The specific reason or reasons for the Adverse Determination;
- ii. Reference to the specific section of the Plan on which the Adverse Determination is based;
- iii. A statement that you are entitled to receive, upon request and free of charge, reasonable access to, and copies of, all documents, records, and other information relevant to your claim; and

Disability Determination

You will have 180 days from the date you receive the notice of an adverse benefit determination within which to appeal your Plan Administrator's decision. You may request that the review be in the nature of a hearing and an attorney may represent you.

You may submit written comments, documents, records, and other information relating to your claim. In addition, you will be provided, upon request and free of charge, reasonable access to, and copies of, all documents, records, and other information pertaining to your claim.

Your appeal will take into account all comments, documents, records, and other information submitted by you relating to the claim, even if the information was not included originally.

Your claim will be reviewed independent of your original claim and will be conducted by a named fiduciary of the Plan other than the individual who denied your original claim or any of his or her employees.

In deciding an appeal of an Adverse Determination that is based in whole or in part on a medical judgment, the appropriate named fiduciary will consult with a health care professional who has appropriate training and experience in the field of medicine involved in the medical judgment.

Your Plan Administrator will provide you with the name(s) of the health care professional(s) who was consulted in connection with your original claim, even if the Adverse Determination was not based on his or her advice. The health care professional consulted for purposes of your appeal will not be the same person or any of his or her employees.

Your Plan Administrator will provide you with notice, in writing or in any allowable format, of the final outcome of your appeal within a reasonable amount of time, but not later than 45 days after the date your request for review was filed. The 45-day period may be extended for up to 45 days if your Plan Administrator determines that an extension is necessary to process your appeal due to special circumstances. Your Plan Administrator will notify you, in writing or in any other allowable format, before the end of the initial 45-day period, of the reason(s) for the extension and the date by which a decision is expected to be made regarding your appeal.

The period of time within which approval or denial of your claim is required to be made generally begins at the time your claim is filed. If the period of time is extended because you fail to submit information necessary to decide your claim, the period for approving or denying your claim will not include the period of time between the date on which the notification of the extension is sent to you and the date on which you provide the additional information.

Your Plan Administrator will provide you, free of charge, any new or additional evidence that was considered, relied upon, or generated by the Plan, insurer, or other person making the benefit determination for your claim as well as any new or additional rationale that was the basis of the benefit determination for your claim. Such new or additional information will be provided as soon as possible and sufficiently in advance of the date on which the notice of the Adverse Determination is required to be provided to you so that you will have a reasonable opportunity to respond.

In the case of an Adverse Determination, the notification will include:

- i. The specific reason or reasons for the Adverse Determination;
- ii. Reference to the specific section of the Plan on which the Adverse Determination is based;
- iii. A statement that you are entitled to receive, upon request and free of charge, reasonable access to, and copies of, all documents, records, and other information relevant to your claim;
- iv. A statement describing any additional voluntary appeal procedures offered by the Plan, your right to obtain the information about such procedures, and a statement of your right to bring an action under Section 502(a) of ERISA, including any contract limitations period that applies to your right to bring such action and the calendar date on which the limitation period expires;
- v. A discussion of the decision, including an explanation of the basis for disagreeing with or not following:
 - the views you presented to the Plan of the health care professionals treating you and the vocational professionals who evaluated you;
 - the views of medical or vocational experts whose advice was obtained on behalf of the Plan in connection with your Adverse Determination, without regard to whether the advice was relied upon in making the benefit determination; and
 - a disability determination you presented the Plan made by the Social Security Administration;
- vi. If the Adverse Determination is based on a medical necessity, experimental treatment, or similar situation, either an explanation of the scientific or clinical judgment for the Adverse Determination, applying the terms of the Plan to your medical circumstances, or a statement that such explanation will be provided free of charge upon request; and
- vii. Either the specific internal rules, guidelines, protocols, standards or other similar criteria of the Plan that was relied upon in making the Adverse Determination or, alternatively, a statement that such rules, guidelines, protocols, standards or other similar criteria of the Plan do not exist.

¹The Department of Labor (DOL) has not set the $1,000 as a hard and fast upper limit for the minimum loan amount. The DOL will determine the suitability of the limit using a facts and circumstances test. The DOL has said that as long as the limit is not above $1,000 they will assume it meets this test.
